

OVERTONE SINGING

HARMONIC DIMENSIONS OF THE HUMAN VOICE

MARK VAN TONGEREN

Terra Nova Press
NEWARK CALLICOON MATSALU

2022

© 2022 by Mark van Tongeren

ISBN: 978-1-949597-22-6

Library of Congress Control Number: 2022931803
All rights reserved.

Terra Nova Press

NEWARK CALLICOON MATSALU

Publisher: David Rothenberg
Editor-in-Chief: Evan Eisenberg
Editor and proofreader: Tyran Grillo
Book design: Martin Pedanik
Cover design: Sonja van Hamel
Set in Spectral

Printed by Tallinn Book Printers, Tallinn, Estonia

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

www.terranoypress.com

Distributed by the MIT Press, Cambridge, Massachusetts and London, England

CONTENTS

FOREWORD by Trân Quang Hai	9
PRELUDE: Meeting With A Tuvan shepherd	11
INTRODUCTION: Where Art Meets Science And Contemplation	15

PART ONE: PHYSICS

CHAPTER 1 - SINGING HARMONICS	25
The sonic library	25
Vowels, timbre and harmonics	27
Speaking in chords	28
The harmonic series	30
The voice	33
Mouth shape and resonance	37
The mouth as a filter	38
Elementary techniques of overtone singing	41
Singing the overtone series	49
Throat singing	50
Defining overtone and throat singing	52
Deep modes of chanting	54
Swollen veins	57
The female voice	58
Oktavist multiphonic growls, anyone?	59
Musical architecture	60
CHAPTER 2 - LISTENING TO HARMONICS	65
Harmonics' hidden history	65
Harmonics at the opera (I)	67
Paraphony	67
The cycle of creation and perception	70
Unusual acoustic phenomena	72
Space and sound	74

PART TWO: EAST

CHAPTER 3 - TUVAN THROAT SINGING	80
Three children and a bull	83
Throat singing in everyday life	84
Two outstanding musician-composers	86
Styles and techniques	92
A teacher and expert	95

Education: Now and then	98
A proto-musical sound world	100
The world of spirits and sound	101
A whole gamut of wheezes	105
Throat singing in ritual, healing and shamanising	107
In previous centuries	110
Live at the Bolshoi	113
Khunashtaar-ool: Khöömei redefined	115
Cultural authorities and musical hierarchies	116
From Vladivostok to Havana	118
Tuvan city blues	123
The Tuva Ensemble	127
Tuva in turmoil	130
A musical lineage continued	132
Huun-Huur-Tu: Back (and forth) to the roots	135
Women and khöömei	139
A concert by full moon	144
Kongar-ool Ondar: Mixed feelings	145
Tradition in motion	148
CHAPTER 4 - OVERTONE SINGING IN OTHER
TRADITIONAL MUSICS	154
Mongolia: Nature sounds and metal music	155
Mongolian and Tuvan throat singing	157
Techniques of Mongolian khöömii	158
Gone with the wind	161
Metal mouth music	165
Epics and harmonics	166
Epics and throat singing in the Republic of Altai	169
Echoes from the past	170
Going to Kyzyl	172
Song for the River Katun	174
The Republic of Khakassia: The spirits return	175
Receiving a gift from the spirits	178
The Republic of Kalmykia: Epics and ideology	180
The Republic of Bashkortostan: An independent case?	183
Tibet: Sound and symbol	186
An eyewitness account	187
Sects and colleges	189
Sutras, mudras and mantras	190
A tool for the mind: The harmonic as symbol	194
A different reality	196
Inner Mongolia: Reinventing khoomii	197
Sardinia, Italy: The quintina or virtual voice	200
South Africa: The human voice as a type of musical bow	205
American barbershop: Linking Africa and Europe	209
Idiosyncrasies	210

PART THREE: WEST

CHAPTER 5 – A HISTORY OF OVERTONE SINGING IN THE WEST	215
The Tortoise, His Dreams and Journeys	216
Tuning up to the cosmos: Stockhausen's Stimmung	217
Trials and errors: A Vietnamese in Paris	222
The 1970s: Extending vocal technique	225
Stratos: Singing the voice	227
David Hykes: Solar winds & rainbow voices	228
Michael Vetter: Zen and sound	235
The snowball effect	240
Globalisation and cross-fertilisation	242
Out of Tuva	244
Yat-Kha and the Global East	247
From deep valleys to high peaks: Urban yodelling	250
Harmonics at the opera (II)	252
Shostakovich and the frozen song of Odná	255
Toby Twining: Requiem for a Millennium	257
Scoring for overtones	260
Rollin Rachele: Harmonic divergence	263
Hefele's viral, solo polyphonies	266
Evening out differences	268
Beyond singing: Natascha Nikeprelevic	270
The stepchild of European music	274

PART FOUR: METAPHYSICS

CHAPTER 6 – BODY, MIND AND BEYOND	278
Unusual experiences	281
New musical phenomena?	284
Meditation: Listening to overtones	286
Christian chants and Buddhist mantras	290
Music, medicine, therapy and healing	294
Therapy and healing with timbre and overtones	295
How to make your bones sing	301
The law of octaves	304
The Greek legacy	307
Silent harmonics	309
Music makes the world go round	311
The dance of molecules	312
The Pythagorean attitude	314
Sound as a pivot to consciousness	317

PART FIVE: QUINTESSENCE

CHAPTER 7 – THE GREAT REALM	324
Traditions and Metaphysics	326
Universals and differences	326
Dimensions of the spiritual	328
Thinking music and nature	332
Physics Versus Metaphysics	333
A ‘theory of musical relativity’	333
A subliminal driving force	337
Paradigm shift	339
The ancient marriage between music and physics reversed	340
Mixed-up modernities and traditions	342
The New Age dilemma	343
The Quintessence of Science, Sound and Self	348
Timbre: A paradox for the senses	348
The Great Realm	351
Coda	353
Acknowledgements	356
About Pronunciations and Transliterations	358
Endnotes	360
Bibliography	366
Sources: Audio Recordings	373
Sources: Audiovisual Media	374
Online Videos	375
Index	376
Anthology of Overtone Singing: The Audio Recordings	379